Not illustrated. 1905 Excerpt: .cleek is the only iron club a full shot can be taken with, and he never uses a mashie beyond a distance of 80 yards. Taylor regards a full iron shot as not more than 90 yards. The mashie is Taylor s favourite club. The Vardons are also very fond of it. The implements used in the approach are designed so that they may be employed with best effect, within certain distances, yet their limits cannot be defined. Make it a rule never to play a full shot with a mashie or use a club with which you are at all likely to press. In the approach, to press is fatal; consequently at any given distance the club employed should be well capable of compassing that distance, but not more. This is why professionals as a rule only play half shots; it is the surest play, and for this reason the following remarks will be made almost entirely with regard to such play. The shorter the distance the shorter the swing, the more open the stance. The closer you stand to the ball, the more you control it and get your eye over its intended line of flight. StAnCE.--Suppose you want to approach a hole from a distance of from 50 to 60 or 70 yards, using a mashie, you can take up the following position: -- Stand with your right foot 14 or 15 inches from the ball-line and 12 inches to the right of the...
