The late report of the Committee of Twelve of the American Philological Association but verifies a matter of general repute among the profession in these words: Some opposition has been made to the study of Caesar as being too difficult for students in the second year of the course. But to omit Caesar would be a retrograde step in the framing of Latin programs. But despite the fact that they hereby state a truth of common knowledge, the words exert a new and powerful force by the prestige of the honorable members of that committee. Educational influences which come from such men as constituted that board are resistless on whatsoever they may be brought to bear. Lovers of the classics, and especially of the...
